

GeoVisions

Brazil is an enchanting destination that has captured the imagination of world travelers for hundreds of years. It is a country that congers images of a tropical paradise seeped in tradition and myth. With its dazzling beaches, lively cities and endless rivers, Brazil will truly take your breath away. All of this natural beauty is complemented by a unique and lively culture that will enchant you with its energy and joy.

The country of Brazil unfolds across 3.3 million square miles including 4,500 miles of white sandy beaches that make up one of longest continuous coastlines in the world. It also contains most of the mighty Amazon rain forest, which covers nearly half of the country and is responsible for supplying over half of the world's oxygen. The 4,200-mile river of the same name is home to over 2,000 different types of fish and the surrounding rain forest supports 30 per cent of all known plant and animal species.

Brazil is also made up of many lively cities including Sao Paulo (home to 17 million people) and the Cidade Maravilhosa or “the marvelous city” as Rio de Janeiro is known to its residents. Brazilians are an outgoing people who love their food almost as much as they love their sport and that is truly saying something! Whether you want to experience the excitement and intrigue of Carnival or a quite evening on the beach, Brazil offers something for everyone.

In our English Camp program, an English-speaking environment is created in order to make the campers feel as if they were abroad. This is done by recruiting only camp counselors whose English level ranges from advanced to native speakers. It is believed that spending some days in a place where they can have fun while listening and speaking in English will increase the campers' interest in using and learning the language. Therefore, the participants do not need to have a specific level of English. The wish to attend these camps provides enough learning and practicing opportunities for all levels of the language.

The camp tries to provide the campers an extremely rich language camp experience. At GeoVisions, we believe that bringing people from all over the world, who speak English fluently will give the campers an unforgettable time. They will not only meet people from other countries and practice English but they will also be able to learn different cultures and hear other accents and approaches to spoken English.

It's a volunteer experience that will provide you with the opportunity to participate in an important cultural exchange. You will have the chance to make new friends, learn about a new culture and hopefully take back a piece of this amazing country with you.
